Whyte Avenue to be home to white pride?

Rival rallies. Blood & Honour march, anti-racism counter-event planned for Edmonton

White supremacists are marching into Edmonton. For the first time, the group Blood & Honour is holding its white-pride rally here, inviting participants from across Canada to "openly express racial pride." The event is slated for March 24, according to a stormfront.org blog post. An organizer first said Edmonton's will replace Calgary's march — which has lost steam in recent years — but later told Metro the event status in that city is "complicated." Anti-Racist Canada plans a counter-rally at noon at End of Steel Park. Const. Ken Smith with the Edmonton Police Service's hate-crimes unit said members are prepared for "whatever happens." Three years ago, the two sides clashed in Calgary and police had to step in. Smith said EPS has been in "constant communication" with Calgary Police Service. He wouldn't say how many officers will be present. Edmonton rally organizers must apply for a permit, but that hasn't happened yet, said Smith, noting the group seems to be organizing here under the radar. "What they wanted to do is catch the police off guard," he said. SHELLEY WILLIAMSON/ WITH FILES FROM JEREMY NOLAIS

Lone councillor's vote delays smoking ban in playgrounds

Smoking at playgrounds, sports fields and other areas where children frequent will soon be banned.

But thanks to Coun. Kerry Diotte, such a bylaw does not exist quite yet.

Diotte was the lone holdout in a vote Wednesday for fining offenders $250 if caught smoking within 10 metres of child-friendly areas.

"Before it was brought forward, I had not had a single person say it was a problem," said Diotte. "I think society has changed to the point where people do not do that."

The proposed bylaw, which includes a $75,000 education campaign to encourage citizens to comply, was supposed to take effect April 1.

Some councillors seemed less than impressed that Diotte blocked third reading, which will likely pass at the next council meeting on April 4.

"I've got to stick to my priorities," said Diotte. "I'm not going to vote for something I think is foolish."

Meanwhile, provincial Liberal leader Raj Sherman introduced a bill in the legislature on Monday that would make it an offense to smoke in vehicles while children are present, a bylaw that exists in a handful of Alberta's municipalities — not including Edmonton.

It passed second reading, but it remains to be seen if third reading will go forward before an election is called.

Testimony. Woman accused of killing kids a good mother: Neighbour

The neighbour of a woman accused of killing her two sons describes her as a good mother.

Allyson McConnell is on trial for second-degree murder in the deaths of 2-1/2-year-old Connor and 10-month-old Jayden in February 2010.

Marless Litzenberger told court Wednesday McConnell was a caring and attentive mother, but around Christmas of 2009, she became stressed and depressed.

McConnell has admitted to drowning the children, but has pleaded not guilty.

The central issue is her state of mind when she did it — she later tried to kill herself by jumping off an overpass in Edmonton.

Science geeks rejoice: Telus centre gets expansion money

Construction. New gallery will provide much-needed venue to host travelling exhibitions, TWOS says

HEATHER MCINTYRE
heather.mcintyre@metronews.ca

Ground has been broken and funding is in place, and now the Telus World of Science is dreaming big.

A $7-million expansion already underway was confirmed on Wednesday, as the province announced $3 million in funding.

That complements the city's $3.5 million and the $500,000 raised by the Edmonton Space & Science Foundation.

The 16,000-square-foot exhibit gallery will be finished in time to host Star Wars Identities in October, for which nearly 15,000 tickets have been sold.

"We know we could have done it in the same manner as we had done Body Worlds," said George Smith, facility president and CEO.

After four years of trying to convince organizers that the TWOS could accommodate Body Worlds, the science centre welcomed a record crowd of 270,000 people who came to see the 2008 exhibition.

"Being able to have this expanded facility will mean so much more for years to come," Smith said.

In fact, because of the expansion moving forward, he has signed two other contracts for exhibitions.

Body Worlds, The Cycle of Life opens on May 25, 2013, and Indiana Jones and the Adventures of Archaeology opens on Nov. 1, 2014.

Premier Alison Redford said she was pleased to announce the funding "to ensure continued excellent work."

Lonesome pine

Blights threaten whitebark pine

A "double-whammy" is threatening to wipe out a tree endangered across North America, a University of Alberta researcher says.

Evan Esch, who is earning his master's in conservation biology, says rising temperatures in cold mountain elevations are ripe conditions for the mountain pine beetle to spread through whitebark pine.

The tree, which can live for up to 1,000 years and provides seeds crucial to animal diets, is also being decimated by white pine blister rust, a fungal infection brought over from Europe a century ago. METRO

Murder trial

Acquit Briscoe, defence argues

Michael Briscoe's lawyer told his first-degree-murder trial Wednesday that charges against the man accused of killing Nina Courtepatte and Ellie May Meyer should be dropped.

The defence argued in a closing statement that Briscoe, 41, was not there the night Meyer was beaten to death in a field in April 2005 by Joseph Laboucan.

The defence said Briscoe's ex-girlfriend lied in her testimony.

Briscoe was present when Courtepatte was raped and killed, but he was not responsible for her death, the defence said.

The Crown has not made closing arguments. METRO

Tories. Investigation into Mar fundraiser punted back to province

Alberta's ethics commissioner says he can't conduct an investigation into a fundraiser by a failed Tory leadership candidate because it falls into a rare category outside his purview.

Neil Wilkinson says the issue around the Gary Mar event is more one of alleged misconduct of a civil servant rather than his area, which is conflict of interest.

Wilkinson says it's understandable that Premier Alison Redford handed the case to him, because his office has conducted all such investigations involving senior officials.

He has sent the investigation back to the government, where it will be handled by sen-

Guards molested us, three women say

Legal action. Female officials left three Canadian travellers traumatized at the border, court documents claim

Three Canadian women have launched legal action alleging they were molested by female U.S. border guards while attempting to cross the border near Windsor, Ont.

Leslie Ingratta of Windsor alleges two customs and border protection officers took her to a holding cell for questioning when she attempted to cross the Detroit-Windsor tunnel on Jan. 30, 2011, for a shopping trip to the U.S.

The lawsuit alleges officials questioned Ingratta repeatedly and accused her of lying about her reasons for travelling before ordering her to face a wall.

With her arms and legs spread, the officials conducted a search that included putting their hands under her bra and fondling her breasts, as well as grabbing her buttocks and rubbing her genitals, the suit alleges.

She was then taken back to the waiting room, crying and shaking, and told she was "clear to enter the United States."

"By this point, plaintiff was too traumatized to continue on her trip and returned to Canada," court documents say.

In a second, joint lawsuit two women from Windsor and Milton, Ont., claim they were strip-searched in an inappropriate manner while

Murdoch son says he didn't lie

News Corp. executive James Murdoch, pictured here during his second appearance before British parliamentarians investigating the country's phone hacking scandal last November. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS / PARLIAMENTARY UNIT VIA APTN

News Corp. executive James Murdoch acknowledged Wednesday that he could have done more to get to grips with the phone hacking scandal that has rocked Britain.

Murdoch's admission came in a seven-page letter written to British parliamentarians investigating the scandal. In it, he repeated his insistence that he didn't know the extent of the illegal behaviour at his now-defunct News of the World tabloid newspaper, saying that the details had been hidden from him by members of his staff.

"It would have been better if I had asked more questions," Murdoch told the House of Commons' media committee. "However the truth is that incomplete answers and what now appear to be false assurances were given to the questions that I asked."

Murdoch has already appeared twice before lawmakers, who grilled him about what he knew about the scandal and alleged attempts to conceal evidence.

Murdoch was the one who signed off on a substantial settlement to one of the first known victims of the practice. The company's former in-house lawyer has said the payoff was aimed at keeping a lid on the scandal, but Murdoch says he had no knowledge of wider wrongdoing and was merely following expert advice.

Critics say that Murdoch was either in on the cover up or too incompetent to realize what he was agreeing to, with lawmaker Tom Watson famously accusing Murdoch of being "the first mafia boss in history who doesn't know he's at the head of a criminal enterprise."

In his letter, Murdoch accused his former lieutenants of working behind his back, acting without his authorization, and giving inconsistent testimony. "I have not misled Parliament," he said. "I did not know about, nor did I try to hide, wrongdoing."

Murdoch's letter

What James Murdoch wrote in his letter to British Parliament about the phone hacking scandal:

- Hidden. Murdoch says his staff concealed the extent of illegal activities at tabloid newspaper News of the World.
- More could have been done. He says he could have asked more questions.
- Innocent. In the letter he writes that he did not try to hide wrongdoing.

Public outraged over suicide of girl forced to marry her rapist

Morocco. Local law pushed victim to marry rapist to escape prosecution and preserve her family's "honour"

The case of a 16-year-old girl who killed herself after she was forced to marry her rapist has spurred outrage among Morocco's Internet activists and ignited calls for changes to the country's laws.

An online petition, a Facebook page and countless tweets expressed horror over the suicide of Amina Filali, who swallowed rat poison on Saturday to protest her marriage to the man who raped her a year earlier.

Article 475 of the Moroccan penal code allows for the "kidnapper" of a minor to marry his victim to escape prosecution, and it has been used to justify a traditional practice of making a rapist marry his victim to preserve the honour of the woman's family.

Abdelaziz Nouaydi, who runs the Adala Association for legal reform, said a judge can recommend marriage only in the case of agreement by the victim and both families.

"It is not something that happens a great deal — it is very rare," he said, but admitted that the family of the victim sometimes agrees out of fear that she won't be able to find a husband if it is known she was raped.

The marriage is then pushed on the victim by the families to avoid scandal, said Fouzia Assouli, president of Democratic League for Women's Rights.

In many societies, the loss of a woman's virginity outside of wedlock is a huge stain of honour on the family.

Sick, sick, sick. SPCA shocked after cat found frozen in a block of ice

Animal-cruelty officers in northern British Columbia are investigating a disturbing case of a frozen cat found in Dawson Creek Tuesday.

"It's a very sick action. I have deep concerns about the stability of anyone who would do this," said Marcie Moriarty, BC SPCA animal-cruelty investigator.

The cat was found frozen in a block of ice and placed atop a BC Hydro box in the Mile Zero Trailer Park at noon.

"The ice block ... was left just a stones throw away from where we found the corpse of a frozen dog in a very similar position and in a Tupperware-like container in January last year," said Moriarty.

"The first time we weren't able to get any significant leads.... We're hoping someone will step forward this time."

Before an autopsy can be conducted the cat must be thawed. Investigators believe there is blood also frozen in the ice block.

Other than the case of the frozen dog, "in my seven years, I haven't come across a case like this," Moriarty declared.

"The way that it was dropped off, this wasn't an accident, it was a deliberate act."

Eight-year-old Victoria Stafford's killer continued her shocking testimony Wednesday — with a disturbing revelation about her accused boyfriend and the little girl's age.

McClintic is serving life after pleading guilty to first-degree murder in Tori's death. Rafferty has pleaded not guilty to first-degree murder, sexual assault causing bodily harm and kidnapping.

McClintic also testified she told Rafferty she would "take the fall" for him.

The vulnerable. Tories to crack down on those guilty of elder abuse

Grim truth

Research by academics, Statistics Canada and seniors' advocates suggests that almost one of every 10 older Canadians experiences some form of abuse.

• Much of the abuse goes unreported. Statistics Canada said in 2009 that about seven in 10 crimes against older Canadians are not reported to police, mainly because victims didn't think they needed help.

The federal government is set to introduce tougher sentences for those convicted of elder abuse.

The Canadian Press has learned that Justice Minister Rob Nicholson and seniors minister Alice Wong are to announce amendments to the Criminal Code on Thursday in Toronto.

The stiffer sentencing provisions were among the Conservatives' promises during the last election campaign, and were also mentioned in last year's speech from the throne.

"Our government will continue to protect the most vulnerable in society and work to prevent crime."

"It will propose tougher sentences for those who abuse seniors and will help at-risk youth avoid gangs and criminal activity," the throne speech stated.

In the rare instance when someone is convicted of abusing an elderly person, sentences are often lenient, says Susan Eng, who heads up the CARP seniors' advocacy group.

She points to the case of a Moncton, N.B., woman who died from neglect in her living-room chair. Her daughter pleaded guilty to failing to provide the necessities of life, but was granted day parole after serving eight months of her four-year sentence.

"Currently, there is no cohesive strategy for dealing with elder abuse in Canada or bringing to light the pervasiveness of the problem," says a recent report by CARP.

By imposing stiffer jail terms on offenders, the federal government is sending a signal to other levels of government and to police that elder abuse needs to be taken more seriously, Eng added.

Switzerland tour bus crash kills dozens

Death. Some 200 rescuers called to scene of accident after bus slams into concrete wall

A tourist bus slammed head-on into a concrete wall in a Swiss Alps tunnel, killing 28 people, mostly children returning from a ski vacation. Swiss police said Wednesday the vehicle was not speeding and everyone was wearing seat belts.

The bus was carrying students about age 12 from two different Belgian schools when it crashed shortly after 9 p.m. Tuesday night on a highway near the southern town of Sierre, Switzerland.

The horrific accident in the short Tunnel de Geronde left the front of the bus mangled, trapping people inside. Twenty-two school children and six adults including the driver were killed and another 24 children were hospitalized in what the police chief described as a "scene like a war."

Belgium flew anxious parents and relatives to the site and called for a day of mourning.

Authorities were still trying to work out how a modern bus, a rested driver and a safe tunnel could add up to such a tragedy.

A Swiss prosecutor said video cameras in the tunnel captured the accident. Olivier Elsig, prosecutor for the canton of Valais, told reporters the children on the bus were wearing seat belts, no other vehicle was involved and it was not speeding.

Speaking at a news conference Wednesday in Sion, the capital of Valais, he said investigators were looking at three possible causes for the crash — a technical problem with the bus, a health problem with the driver, or human error.

Earthquake. Japan hit by tremors days after tsunami anniversary

A series of earthquakes rattled Tokyo and northeastern Japan on Wednesday evening but caused no apparent damage or injury in the same region hit by last year's devastating tsunami.

The strongest was a magnitude-6.8 that struck off Hokkaido island and generated a small tsunami. Some communities along the northern Pacific coast advised residents to evacuate coastal homes.

A swelling of 20 centimetres was observed in water at the port of Hachinohe in Aomori about an hour after the tremor, with smaller changes seen elsewhere. The Meteorological Agency lifted all tsunami advisories within about 90 minutes.

About 9 p.m. local time, a magnitude-6.1 quake shook buildings in the capital. It was centred just off the coast of Chiba, east of Tokyo, at a rather shallow 15 kilometres deep.

Narita International Airport briefly closed runways for inspection but later resumed operation. Several local train services were suspended for safety checks.

quakes, operators said. Nearly all of Japan's nuclear plants are offline for safety inspections.

This past Sunday, Japan marked the first anniversary of the massive magnitude-9.0 earthquake and tsunami that left some 19,000 people dead or missing, wreaked widespread damage along the northeastern coast and triggered the worst nuclear accident since Chernobyl. Rebuilding has yet to fully begin in many coastal communities.

A juicy chicken filet — made in Prof. Fu-hung Hsieh's laboratory.

Lab-grown meat looks, feels, tastes like chicken

Food revolution.

Biological engineers have succeeded in creating edible meat from stem cells

ELISABETH BRAW
Metro World News

"Let there be animals," said God, and He created chickens, cattle and fish. Actually, it's not God. It's Fu-hung Hsieh, professor of biological engineering at the University of Missouri.

Hsieh makes chicken. That's right: He creates chicken out of nothing — tasty filets that look, feel and taste like the real bird.

"Laboratory-grown meat needs to mimic the appearance and bite of natural meat," said Hsieh. "In the past, researchers haven't been able to recreate the appearance, so consumers wouldn't eat the artificial meat."

But even foodies would have a hard time telling natural chicken apart from Hsieh's new chicken. It's now being produced for use in restaurants.

Hsieh stands at the forefront of a global food revolution. Biological engineers in several countries have recently succeeded in creating edible meat that looks appealing. Earlier this year a Dutch researcher created the world's first laboratory-grown edible hamburger.

"We've made big steps in

How it works:

1 To create an artificial hamburger, steak, or chicken breast, scientists take stem cells from animals and grow them into a 3-D shape.

2 Then they grow the cells into muscle cells. As with natural muscle cells, the cultivated muscle cells "bulk up" into solid muscle bundles.

3 As soon as the muscle cells grow in size, it's important that the tissue is continuously supplied with nutrients.

4 The scientists then create channels, similar to blood veins. "The easiest meat to create is sausage," explains van der Schaft. "It doesn't have to look attractive like a steak."

creating laboratory-grown meat, but the result isn't something I'd eat at this moment," said Dr. Daisy van der Schaft, a biomedical engineer at Eindhoven University in the Netherlands. "Part of the problem is that the gel that binds the cells together contains animal-derived material and actually also material derived from mouse tumors."

Professor Hsieh and his team are now about to create turkey, beef and fish.

"That's very different from chicken," he said. "With fish, especially, you have the additional challenge of replicating many different colours."

If research continues to progress, supermarkets could sell lab meat within the next several years.

Airline workers protest order

Air Canada union workers continued to protest outside government offices in Ottawa Wednesday, after federal politicians imposed an arbitration order that forces the airline to keep flying.

Bill C-33, which passed Wednesday morning, covers about 8,600 mechanics, baggage handlers and other ground crew at Air Canada and about 3,000 pilots.

Labour Minister Lisa Raitt had proposed the back-towork legislation on Monday, saying a work stoppage at Air Canada was something the country could not afford. The government had invoked closure on Tuesday afternoon, setting up the final vote in the House of Commons.

But the union representing the mechanics and other workers said Tuesday that the decision to impose arbitration on its talks with the airline eroded labour rights.

International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers executive Daven Ritchie said the bill would "poison labour relations across Canada."

Under the "final offer selection" arbitration process, the union and airline will put forward their best offer and an arbitrator will select one.

The bill now goes to the Senate, where the Conservatives are expected to use their majority for speedy passage.

Vehicle sales on the rise

Canadian sales of new cars and trucks opened the year on a resoundingly positive note, but may have fallen off last month, Statistics Canada suggested Wednesday.

The federal agency — which collects data on monthly retail sales in dollars and in units of new vehicles sold in Canada — found a 15.4 per cent rise in vehicles sold in January to 153,623 units from 133,146 units sold in December.

The data indicates sales rose at the fastest pace in more than 15 years in January, economist Robert Kavcic said Wednesday in a report by BMO Economics.

And while sales are likely to dip in the short term, the industry is headed in the right direction, he said.

"January's growth was largely the result of inventories becoming available after the auto-sector supply-chain was disrupted last year," he said.

"Sales rose across the country, with Ontario and Quebec seeing the biggest increases."

PUTTING THE CLUB BACK IN SEAL CLUBBING

HE SAYS...
John Mazerolle
metronews.ca/hesays

As “pop” “super” “star” Ke$ha throws her weight (90 pounds) behind the fight against the Atlantic Canadian seal hunt, the question must be asked: Who spoke for the seals before pop culture sucked?

Every year there's some sort of celebrity who clubs us over the head with the message that Newfoundlanders and Maritimers are barbarians for taking part in a tightly controlled hunt of sea mammals (horrors!).

There's been Pamela Anderson, MacGyver, an America's Top Model host, and generally just a cavalcade of Z-listers who need something to do now that there's no such thing as Hollywood Squares.

What the $#!

And this year there's Ke$ha, trying to $ave the $eals, despite an apparent shortage of funds which keeps her from replacing the S on her keyboard.

And this year there's Ke$ha trying to $ave the $eals despite an apparent shortage of funds that keeps her from replacing the S on her keyboard. The irony in this case being that her music can kill surrounding animal and plant life at 100 paces.

All celebrity-bashing aside, there are only a couple of reasons why people care about the seal hunt.

First and foremost, seals are so cute they're basically children's toys with intestines. The acceptability of animal slaughter is based entirely on how adorable a species is. That's why you never see a supermodel on the ice floes promoting the Save the Flounder foundation.

The second reason is that seals are killed for one brief period each year, which by definition makes it news. No media outlet covers the bloody slaughter of cows, chicken and sheep because it's 365, 24-7, and budgets these days don't allow that kind of in-depth reporting.

I feel particularly bad for the cow. It's dopey-looking and is killed by the tens of millions. That's why many celebrities have posed for those Got Milk? ads. Think about that. Famous people pose with the food made for the cows' children smeared on their face, all with a big smile. Barbarians.

If you're a vegetarian, cool, add the seal hunt to the list of things that offend your sensibilities. But if you like steak, chicken or lobster, then you're a hypocrite, and possibly a big, fat one.

I just looked it up, and Ke$ha is a vegetarian, so I guess she's off the hook. The seal hunt is a heated discussion, but I'm always up for differing, honestly held opinions.

I call a truce, Ke$ha. If we're ever in Newfoundland at the same time, let's go clubbing.

Hollywood tries to Bully AMA

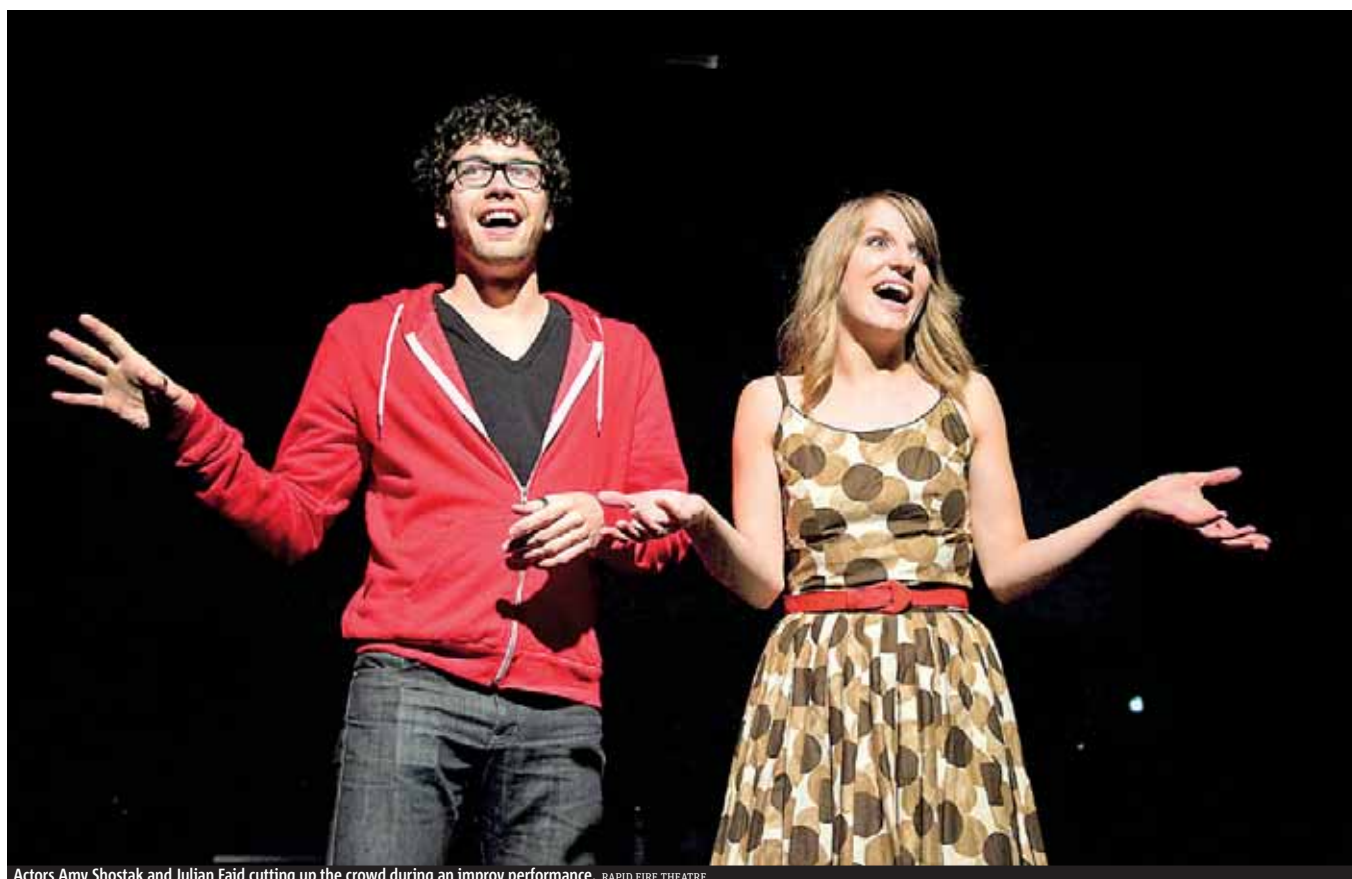

More Hollywood heavyweights, including Johnny Depp, are joining the call for a lower rating on the teen-focused documentary Bully. Lee Hirsch's documentary on bullying in American schools has been rated R for language. Distributors appealed the decision, but it was upheld by the Motion Picture Association of America, which oversees movie ratings. In Canada, provinces which have already rated the documentary have given it a PG rating.

Breaking the improv mould

BONFIRE changing up the format to challenge actors. New format unlike any other improv shows

When I think of improv, I think of actors taking a few audience suggestions and then making people laugh for the rest of the night. I always assumed there wasn't really any way to prepare since the whole idea of improv is to be spontaneous. But, after chatting with Rapid Fire Theatre's Creative Director Amy Shostack, who is busy planning the company's first BONFIRE festival, I got an unexpected glimpse into what really goes into making improv a hit.

"Right now we are in mad rehearsal mode," says Shostack.

I stop her.

"But, how do you rehearse for unpredictable audience suggestions?" I ask sheepishly aware of my exposed lack of improv education.

Shostack enthusiastically explains the cast prepares as best they can for flow and structure. However, what separates BONFIRE festival from other improv festivals is that it's going to push the envelope and force actors to break patterns.

"This is what actors crave," she says. "When you first start improv, it's horrifyingly scary. That fear turns to excitement and it's that adrenaline rush that has performers looking for new ways to get that rush."

Shostack says the theatre group wanted to mix things up while departing slightly from their annual Improvaganza event.

"In June, we bring artists in from all over the world, which is great but we wanted to do something different and show our own people doing their thing," she says.

With that, BONFIRE was born. The concept spurred the cast to bring forward ideas they've always wanted to try on stage.

One performance will even feature visual artists painting while jazz musicians play during the show.

"Improv in Edmonton has been the same for a long time," explains Shostack. "We are excited to bring shows and styles this city hasn't experienced yet."

For starters, BONFIRE festival focuses on long form improv. Unlike short improv, which sees performances chopped into multiple, unrelated scenes, long form is connected by narrative, and even the imagination of the audience. Visit rapidfiretheatre.com for more information.

Co-writer/co-directors Mark Duplass, left, and Jay Duplass on the set of their film Jeff, Who Lives at Home, from Paramount Pictures and Indian Paintbrush. HANDOUT

Brothers with the pen and the lens

Q&A. Metro chats with one half of the creative team behind new film Jeff, Who Lives at Home

MWN Hollywood

Filmmaker brothers Jay and Mark Duplass do everything together — write, direct, conduct interviews.

So we took it as a rare treat when, due to a scheduling conflict, we got to interview Jay on his own for their new film, Jeff, Who Lives at Home.

But if you're looking for simmering sibling tensions, don't get your hopes up. The quieter Duplass Brother passed on the opportunity to badmouth Mark.

Where did the story for this film come from?

We actually wrote a short film in 2003. It wasn't titled anything, we just wrote a very short film about this character and it was about him in his basement apart-

It was inspired by the character, someone who is totally obsessed with the concept of destiny, their place in the world, their connection to their destiny, signs leading from one place to the next — potentially smoking marijuana.

And the concept was that we would take this person and thrust them in the world. And actually make them interact with the real world and some point and hopefully it would be funny.

It is funny, but it's also a very realistic, dramatic film.

Now that we have made a few films, we're realizing that a lot of times what we do is we start in on the comedic side of things — and I think that's how we experience characters like Jeff in our own life.

You see a guy like Jeff at the supermarket, you're probably going to tap your spouse and giggle about the guy who is smelling the fruit a little too long.

But you get to know this person — they have dreams, they have hopes and they probably have a dark side. They probably have a really dark side if they are in that position where they're smelling fruit for too long, you know?

Where do you get the ideas for your films usually?

Mark and I have always sat in airports and in our apartments and told each other stories about these really embarrassing, cringe-worthy things that we've done in our relationships or that some friends of ours has done, and we'll be like, "Oh, that's awful."

It's very dramatic. And then we'll start giggling about it. And I now know that that's what we're doing in our movies. We're relating insanely specific and realistic things that happen between people and cringing about it and giggling about after. It's obvious now that that's what Mark and I have uniquely to offer the world, but that was such a painful, long-term process of finding that. We are terrified of looking out and looking at other filmmakers. We are completely focused on just staying within ourselves and staying within our peer group.

You've been brothers your whole lives, but when did you start creating together?

We've been creating together since Mark was born. We just grew up in a very creative family. We're just kind of from a middle-class New Orleans family, and my dad's a lawyer, my mom took care of us and now she does retail.

But when we were growing up, we baked, we made stained glass out of plastic Mardi Gras beads — and probably contaminated ourselves the whole way through. We did make movies with the giant VCR with the VTR attached, the separate unit. I would carry the camera and Mark would have to lug the VTR. We were in bands together.

So we've always made things and we've always functioned as a unit. You have to put credits up there, but Mark and I just make stuff.

Television. Judd's 'great European adventure'

Missing, which stars Ashley Judd, premieres Thursday on CTV. HANDOUT

Scene@metronews.ca

Ashley Judd says the decision to return to TV with the spy drama Missing didn't come easily.

"There was a lot of hesitation. I was really torn right up until I decided to do it," says Judd, who is best known for such big screen movies as Kiss the Girls and Double Jeopardy.

"But part of what attracted me to this project was the premise — which was very simple and compelling. I'm a mother looking for her missing child."

Which is true. To a point. In Missing, Judd does indeed play Rebecca Winstone, a middle-aged widow who is horrified when her son goes missing while vacationing in Europe.

But when the authorities prove no help, Winstone heads to Europe, where she quickly reveals her past life as a CIA operative who can kick some serious butt when things turn deadly.

"I only get back involved with the CIA so I can find my son. But to my great dismay, I start to get pulled back into that old life."

Missing is also something of an international production with episodes set in such exotic locales like Rome, Paris, Dubrovnik, and Istanbul. The international cast includes Sean Bean, Keith Carradine, and Canada's Lorraine Bracco.

"We didn't shoot in Burbank. There's very little green screen and minimal interiors," says Judd, who last graced the small screen in the early 1990s with Sisters.

"The whole point is that we're taking North Americans on this great European adventure and making TV for the world."

Judd says prepping for the show's energetic fight scenes involved little more than a few weeks of yoga.

"I have some background in it. And I had an amazing fight choreographer. For whatever reason, I'm good at it. I'm a natural. I like it," she laughs.

Besides acting, Judd has devoted a lot of her time in recent years to furthering her education. She recently completed a Masters in Public Administration at Harvard.

"It's really fun to go back as a grownup with life experience and to look through the course catalogue and think — what do I really want to learn and study?" Missing premieres Thursday on CTV.

Case closed ... Gillian Anderson admits to having lesbian affair

X-Files star Gillian Anderson confirms to Out magazine that she's no stranger to same-sex romance.

"I was in a relationship with a girl for a long time when I was in high school," the 43-year-old actress says, adding that she had additional flings with other women.

"You know, I'm old enough that I can talk about that." Anderson acknowledges that the dalliances might have had a bigger impact on her had they played a bigger role in her romantic life.

"If I had thought I was 100 per cent gay, would it have been a different experience for me?" she wonders.

"It's possible that my attitude around it came, on some level, from knowing that I still liked boys."

Lawrence tried to squash beef before it became an issue

Jennifer Lawrence isn't in a hurry to make any enemies in Hollywood, so when a tabloid story suggested she was feuding with Twilight star Kristen Stewart, the Hunger Games star did everything she could to quash it before it kicked off.

"There were all these like, fake quotes from me that were actually hilarious. Some of them were from my 'pal' and 'sources,'" Lawrence tells Access Hollywood.

"Then I was like, 'Oh my God. If she reads this, what if she thinks it's true?' I just shot her an email, and was like, 'Hey, can't wait to see more as this feud unfolds!'"

Stewart, no stranger to being tabloid fodder, took it in stride.

"She wrote me back," says Lawrence. "She was like, 'It's fine. Welcome to the world where everything you say gets turned into (something it's not).' So, she understood."

Lohan could see a hit and run charge

scene@metronews.ca

It's been, what? A hot minute since Lindsay Lohan hasn't been in trouble with the law?

Her days-long winning streak is seemingly coming to an end after allegedly hitting a man with her brand new black Porsche and fleeing the scene in Hollywood late Tuesday night, according to TMZ.

Lohan was reportedly trying to execute a three-point turn and avoid paparazzi while leaving a nightclub when her car made contact with the manager of a nearby hookah lounge.

The manager, whose knee was supposedly grazed, initially said he was fine and didn't need medical attention, according to paparazzi on the scene. But when he was informed that Lohan was behind the wheel, he reportedly began complaining about being injured.

The man was taken to the emergency room and is said to be considering hiring a lawyer and pressing charges.

Police sources tell the website that they will open a hit-and-run investigation if the man decides to press charges.

Tell-all book could net Perry a multi-million dollar payday

Katy Perry has reportedly been flooded with offers to write a tell-all book about her divorce from Russell Brand, with one publisher offering $3.1 million for the story, according to the Sun.

There's no word on whether she's considering the offer, but some speculate that her recent silence seems suspect.

"When everything was going well, Katy couldn't stop talking about him," a source notes.

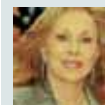

"Since the split, neither of them have said anything — keeping the price of a deal high."

The decorated waist

Inhale and hold. The waist was a major focal point for the fall shows.

Burberry Prorsum highlighted it with little bows, Etro played it up with horsey harnesses and pep-lums, while Fendi and Acne cinched it with wide, sculpting belts. This is probably the easiest idea to adopt now. Simply grab a ribbon and tie it around any one of spring's trendy, lady-like dresses.

Clothes you can breathe in

Despite all the nipped and cinched waists we've seen all month, there was also an overall no-squeezing-required easiness to a lot of the clothes designers showed for fall.

Basically, you don't have to have the perfect body to pull them off.

Think relaxed and slouchy trousers (as seen at Balenciaga, Dries van Noten and Proenza Schouler, to name a few) and skirts that are forgivingly full and knee length (Marc Jacobs, Rodarte and Rochas are good examples).

So go ahead and eat the bun that came with that hamburger.

NEXT FALL

Dark and moody

The darker the colour, the more on-trend you'll be next fall. Burgundy, oxblood and purple were the colours of the season in New York and London showing up everywhere from Diane von Furstenberg to Jason Wu to Christopher Kane.

And black dominated Milan and Paris — just look at Gucci, Alberta Ferretti, Roberto Cavalli, Givenchy and Yves Saint Laurent for proof. You get extra points if you go dark from head to toe à la Rooney Mara, the most referenced girl of the month. But we suggest holding off until September before you start rocking this look. The Girl With the Dragon Tattoo goth thing can get a little hot and sweaty in spring.

Huge problems

Kenya Hunt, Metro World News

Look-at-me outerwear

Technically, every autumn/winter show is an outerwear show. wCoats and jackets are one of those items that women rarely skimp on, so designers like to give plenty to choose from here.

That said, the outerwear reached new heights when it comes to fabric innovation and embellishment — that's a good thing when you consider that the winter coat is the only thing a person really sees on the street in winter.

Our votes for season's best goes to Prada (decorative and ornamental), Alexander Wang (slick, sleek and urban) and Jil Sander (soft, chic and romantic).

NEVER

Anything that appears to swallow you whole

Outsize coats and dresses are having a moment again thanks to Marc Jacobs and Comme des Garçons. But word to the wise: steer clear of any garment that looks like it could eat you for lunch or take up its own seat on the subway unless you are a fashionista with the most advanced degree.

Animals appearing 2D and 3D on clothing

Jeremy Scott attached a giant white unicorn to a black evening dress. And Jean-Charles de Castelbajac affixed life-size toucan heads to the shoulders of tweed suits. But unless your name is Lady Gaga, neither of these looks will go over well in the day-to-day.

Music à la mode

If the clothes could sing

When soundtracks go right

The playlist for Raf Simons' last Jil Sander show included The Smashing Pumpkins' 'Tonight, Mazy Star's 'Fade Into You,' and Sonic Youth's cover of Superstar. It was poignant and slightly melancholic, helping to get the audience appropriately choked up for Simons' final bow.

And when they go wrong

Sportmax showed a solid, polished collection. But that's not what everyone was talking about after the show. That would actually be the soundtrack, which was randomly filled with the raunchiest hip hop club bangers including The Ying Yang Twins' notoriously perky 'Whisper Song.'

The Azealia vs. Lana sing-off

It was the month of Azealia Banks' 212 and Lana del Rey's Video Games with their music popping up at Unique, Blugirl, Etro, Tracy Reese, the list goes on. That said, maybe it's time for these ladies to drop a new single?

We've got your floors covered: Artful and affordable area rugs

Decor ideas. Rugs are all the rage and can make a room pop—why not unroll a little art under your feet?

Area rugs not only add a decorative touch to a room but can also bring furniture together in open concept spaces, protect hardwood floors from pets and children, muffle noise and be soft underfoot for comfort.

The trend of the hand-spun, hand-dyed rug that celebrates the contemporary craftsman is all the rage in rugs; and not only in the upper price range where most of the big trends usually start.

Similar to how a special painting or sculpture will contribute to a room, a unique area rug will bring style and personality in a simple space.

Here's a look at some of the fantastic and affordable area rugs following the hand-made trends.

Tie-dye

Dyeing old carpets with saturated colour has been a popular way to renew the look of outdated rugs for a few years now. Black, white and grey neutrals are on trend for this season and CB2's hand tufted wool carpet goes through a 36-step process to achieve the groovy tie-dyed effect. Tie-Dye Rug, $299/five-by-eight feet, CB2 (see above).

Exotic finds

There's no need to travel halfway around the world to an exotic country in hopes of bringing back a souvenir rug. Known as 'rag-rugs' in Morocco, Boucherouite rugs are handcrafted from scraps of yarn for a one of a kind, exotic look and imported to North America. Hand woven from cotton and wool in classic Moroccan patterns. Found Moroccan Boucherouite Rug, $470/ four-by-seven feet, West Elm (see left).

Thick and tufted

Not since the all-wool Chinese tufted carpet have we seen artful rugs so thick and comfortable underfoot. Clean lines and simplicity makes the three-quarter-inch thick Chelsea Blue Hearts rug durable and elegant. All wool with shimmering viscose accents helps to give a luxe appeal while absorbing noise and sound in style. Blue Hearts Chelsea Rug, $299/five-by-eight feet, HomeSav.com (see above).

Modern medallion

It's easy to find a fussy Persian-style rug with the medallion pattern but usually they are outdated in their look and colour. Grey is the colour of the season with simple exotic henna medallion motifs on 100 per cent New Zealand wool gives a modern spirit to an old idea. Hi Charles, I love your column. Do you have a solution to get rid of orange soap scum stains on the caulking of shower stalls? I've switched to liquid soap and have tried everything (including clear vinegar, baking soda paste, Tilex) along with scrubbing, but to no avail. Thanks, Peter

Dear Peter,

What kind of orange soap are you using that causes so much staining to the caulking in your shower?

That's the first thing that sounds scary to me!

Now you said you have tried a baking soda paste.

I want you to change your mixture and use about 3 parts baking soda to 1 part hydrogen peroxide, and leave this solution on the grout/caulking for at least one hour.

Then simply rinse away. This may just do the trick.

If it does not after everything you have tried, it may mean that your caulking (most likely a plastic base) has absorbed and taken on the colour of your soap.

This means you only have two options left:

1. Re-do the caulking in your shower.

2. Change soap. Good Luck!

A couple of utilitarian decor myths: It's a cold, masculine look best suited for Alpha males — not true. CONTRIBUTED

Stripped down style isn't just for bachelors and serial killers

Utilitarian decor.

More of us are embracing this style of decor for its clean simplicity. It's all about being understated.

life@metronews.ca

The utilitarian look doesn't have to resemble a vacant factory floor. We spoke to designer Adrienne Chinn about making hard-edged feel homely.

Putting your interior faith in the utilitarian look has a similar ring to that of joining a particularly strict religious sect. In other words, it sounds spartan, clinical and practical, with little room for creative expression and individualism.

Of course, that's not the case, it being an increasingly popular trend among urbanites. The reason for peoples' conversion to the pared-down look is "because more people are buying properties in buildings that were once warehouses, pubs or other commercial spaces — the style works well in large, open spaces with an industrial feel," explains Chinn.

No cost to comfort

You might be going for a lo-fi style but that doesn't mean your apartment has to be the interior equivalent of a hair shirt. "It's important to incorporate comfort into a utilitarian style," says the design director of Adrienne Chinn Design. "Put up custom-sized industrial landscape wall coverings next to brick walls or concrete flooring for some graphic color. Dress large windows with some full-length silk curtains. The trick is to add tactile comfort with a utilitarian edge in the design."

Streamline with lines

Meticulously spic-and-span flats can read a little obsessive-compulsive, but the interiors expert sees it differently. "It's a clutter-free, edgy and modern look. Build in handle-less cupboards to stow away your stuff or bring in locker-style cupboards for a streetwise element," says Chinn. She adds, "It's perfect for the bachelor, the couple, or for a young family (lots of room to run around the flat). I've even known a couple regularly roller-skate around their industrial space."

Low-stress living

You don't have to be the fastidious type either, claims Chinn, aside from keeping your place tidy: "Floors are normally wood, tile, concrete or poured resin, which are easy to keep clean. However it's important to include area rugs to soften the edges of the look."

Old meets new

Just because you live in a period property doesn't mean that your decor has to remain a relic of the past. The expert says, "You can bring elements of the utilitarian look into older properties. Streamlined sectional sofas and modern lighting look great with an old Persian carpet, modern art against a white wall and original architectural features like fireplaces and cornices all juxtapose superbly. It's all a matter of balance."

Let there be light

Industrial looks tend to evoke darkness and a masculine harshness, so it's important to flood the room with light as the designer reveals. "Good light, both natural and electric is vital for the look to work. Try adding decorative accent lighting along with hidden lighting to keep the room feeling airy and not oppressive."

Keep it quirky

There's absolutely no need for a stripped-down style to appear bland.

- Be original, baby. "Layering textures, such as leather and chrome furniture with long silk curtains, textural or graphic feature walls, will give your space some style clout," describes Chinn. "Mix edgy items with some distressed older pieces like modern dining chairs around a rustic farmhouse table." After all, it's the unexpected details that keep style original.

Insist on a community where "friending" comes naturally.

Ceramics make a pretty lovely comeback

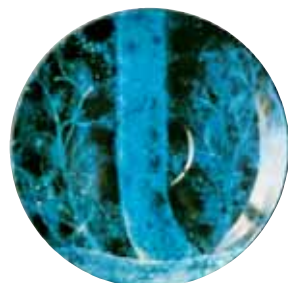

Pottery arts. One-of-a-kind ceramics can add colour and interest to your home – just don't bring them to a Greek wedding party

Ceramics are always a great supporting player on the home decor stage, but this season they're grabbing more of the spotlight.

Today's ceramists are exploring creative textures and finishes, and even the mass market is offering exciting new examples of the pottery arts. From velvety soft lacy tea light holders to chunky, colourful platters, there's something for everyone.

You can choose to feature pottery prominently or enlist it as punctuation to other colours and textures in your room.

A piece with lots of pattern punch can be a conversation starter, whether it was created half a world away by a village artisan or right in your own hometown.

A plate from Leah Piepgras's series shows a human esophagus. The collection depicts the journey of food through our bodies, from mouth to final destination, in hand dishes. LEAH PIEPGRAS/

Susan Dwyer, a sculpture major at an art school in Chicago, was inspired by the clean, minimal lines of the city's industrial landscape to create a cool series of vessels evoking factory buildings, water towers and silos. All hand-formed, each piece has a unique organic look that is at odds with, yet complementary to, the manufactured structure it represents.

Amy Adams, the brains behind Brooklyn-based Perch studio, has designed a clever series of stacking cups with stenciled rosettes, flowers, garlands or triangles. Available in black and white or turquoise and white, these have a nice folk-art look and would be versatile little repositories for drinks, flowers or trinkets.

One of the masters of ceramic art, Jonathan Adler, showed his Carnaby collection at the recent New York International Gift Fair. Pieces include the Waves tray and Acid lamp, featuring groovy '70s-inspired graphics.

But Adler also has done a lovely group of nature-themed pottery pieces for which he threw the prototype and Peruvian artisans created the finished product. Motifs include leaves, seed pods and barnacles.

West Elm has Maria Moyer's pretty pierced tea light holders and stunning white orb vases, which look as if they were born in some far-off galaxy. A percentage of sales of her pieces benefit Oceana, a non-profit marine conservation group. John Newdigate's fun blue-and-white-fish painted platters and fish-shaped serveware have a Japanese vibe.

Boston artist Leah Piepgras may have created the ultimate ceramic conversation piece, however. At the New York fair, her Consumption series of porcelain plates was shown at the Model Citizens booth. For a limited edition produced by Pickard China, Piepgras uses anatomical illustrations to draw each stage of the digestive tract from mouth (the tea cup) to, well, the end of the line for food we eat (the dessert plate).

A result of her keen interest in the body and brain, Piepgras says her "map" is "a reminder of the processes that are taking place within you while you're eating, promoting an exercise in mindfulness."

Rendered in a blue-black palette that's less realistic than flesh tones, the plates are beautifully odd. At $750 a set, this would perhaps be better suited to display than dinner. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Accent pieces

Ceramics can help tie a space together, picking up elements — a knitted motif or a colour, say — that appear in artwork, throw pillows or rugs elsewhere in the room.

Despite injuries, Nuge still not out of the Calder race

THE HOCKEY NEWS

Ryan Kennedy
edmonton@metronews.ca

A couple months ago, it would have seemed ludicrous to even talk about the Calder Trophy — it would go to "The Nuge," right? But Edmonton's star rookie may not even be the front-runner for freshman of the year right now and his season is almost finished.

No doubt Ryan Nugent-Hopkins is a tremendous talent and a cornerstone of the Oilers rebuild. But Sidney Crosby didn't win the Calder (Alex Ovechkin took it that year) and a host of other greats missed out too, from Steve Yzerman and Nick Lidstrom to Jarome Iginla. The fact is, you can only win it once and you only get one shot.

Because of shoulder injuries that robbed him of games in the middle of the campaign, Nugent-Hopkins lost out on the chance to dazzle via big numbers — he could still be the rookie points champ, but it will take a big push in the final dozen games or so.

Right now, The Nuge still has an excellent points-per-game average; basically he's almost a point-per-game player. But his two closest rivals are both two-way players who kill penalties and bring sturdy defensive acumen to the forward position. That would be Gabriel Landeskog of Colorado and Adam Henrique of New Jersey. Landeskog has been a model of consistency for the Avs and their dogged pursuit of a playoff spot, while Henrique (ironically Taylor Hall's linemate in junior) has centred the Devils' top line with Ilya Kovalchuk and Zach Parise for most of the year.

Both players currently have more points than Nugent-Hopkins, though in many more games.

What the hockey writer voters must weigh now is which of those three candidates had the most impact on his respective team. Missing the playoffs should not be a strike against. Witness Carolina's Jeff Skinner over San Jose's Logan Couture last year, or Chicago's Patrick

Oilers 3, Blue Jackets 0

Kane over Washington's Nicklas Backstrom in 2008. Making them can be a positive, however, meaning Landeskog's ability to get the Avs into the dance could go a long way.

Not that Nugent-Hopkins can change much right now. Like a pro, he'll play out the string and hopefully get the Oilers some wins thanks to his offence. The young pivot's defence isn't awful and he forechecks well with his stick, but it's not the first thing that comes to mind when speaking of his game. But Calder or not, it's been a great first impression.

In brief

Coach of Knicks steps down

Mike D'Antoni resigned Wednesday as coach of the New York Knicks, whose brief resurgence in a wave of Linsanity quickly gave way to a late-season skid that puts them in danger of even making the NBA playoffs. Assistant coach Mike Woodson will serve as interim head coach. Never able to duplicate his success in Phoenix, D'Antoni was headed to his third losing season since signing a $24-million US, four-year contract in 2008 that made him one of the NBA's highest-paid coaches.

GMs ponder shift of power to Penguins

There were a few jealous glances cast toward Pittsburgh GM Ray Shero.

News of Sidney Crosby's impending return to the Penguins lineup left Shero's colleagues wondering how much tougher the path to the Stanley Cup has become as they gathered in Florida for the NHL's general managers' meetings in Boca Raton, Fla.

"With him back, it's certainly going to make it a lot more difficult," New York Rangers GM Glen Sather said Wednesday after the meetings wrapped up.

Crosby is scheduled to

Reaction

"I hope he doesn't play against us (in the playoffs).... He adds a great dimension to their hockey team."

Ottawa Senators GM Bryan Murray on the return of Sidney Crosby see his first action since Dec. 5 when Pittsburgh (42-21-5) visits the Rangers at Madison Square Garden on Thursday night. New York (44-18-7) is currently the top seed in the Eastern Conference, six points up on the Penguins.

However, Crosby is rejoining a Pittsburgh team that has won nine straight games and appears to be peaking just before the start of the playoffs. Adding the best player in hockey to that mix is a scary thing for opponents.

"It's not like they needed help," said Philadelphia Flyers GM Paul Holmgren.

Not only does his team face the Penguins three times before the end of the regular season, they are also possible first-round opponents.

"Obviously, Pittsburgh over the last couple of years have been a tremendous team," he said. "There was a period of time last year where they had Sidney and Evgeni (Malkin) out and they still continued to march along. They're certainly one of the top teams in the East."

Crosby's absence dates back to January 2011, when he sustained blows to the head in consecutive games and was diagnosed with a concussion. He returned to the Penguins lineup in November before suffering a setback in December that was linked to a soft-tissue neck issue.

While acknowledging that his team found it easier to face Pittsburgh without Crosby, New Jersey Devils GM Lou Lamoriello indicated that seeing No. 87 back will be a welcome sight.

"It's great that he's back," said Lamoriello. "He's certainly not only a great player, but he's a great personality in the game. He represents the game as well as anybody represents the game."

Horoscope

♈ Aries | March 21 - April 20.

Don't expect rivals to play fairly but that's OK because you have no intention of playing fairly either!

♉ Taurus | April 21 - May 21.

Let others know what is on your mind. You should really be this direct more often.

♊ Gemini | May 22 - June 20.

You are in an impulsive mood at the moment and common sense is unlikely to be a factor in your thinking. Don't gamble your rep.

♋ Cancer | June 21 - July 22.

Put your own needs first today and ignore those who say you should be more careful. Be more adventurous — all the time!

♌ Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22. It's not like you to have doubts but something is tormenting you more than it should. Focus on the positive.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22. If you act on every piece of advice you get today, you won't get much done. You might as well ignore it.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22.

Assert yourself today and let colleagues and employers know you have what it takes to earn a promotion. Shine bright.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21.

You may have big plans but do they stand a realistic chance of success? That is the question.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec. 21.

Today is decision day as far as a work-related matter is concerned. Make your choice.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan. 20.

You will be in a fault-finding mood today. You just can't keep from pointing others' mistakes.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb. 18.

Look for time-saving and energy-saving shortcuts today — there's plenty of them waiting to be used.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20.

You don't care how many egos might get bruised, you have things to say and they cannot wait any longer. SALLY BROMPTON
